DOCK DECISION

THE British Government's decision to close down the local Naval Dockyard ita many years of overall pattern of modern naval strategy, dictated by n new concept of defence the Colony must accept are beyond her control.

The White Paper on Defence made it quite clear that there would be reductions in establishments in various parts of the world and unfortunately Hongkong had to be included to meet requirements. It was no light decision to make as it involved the retrenchment of some 5,000 employees, many of whom have served the yard faithfully and conscientiously for years. The employees have the entire Colony's sympathy in their present prospect of being thrown out of work.

WELL AWARE

TER Majesty's Govern-II ment, well aware of the hardship ' liable to' be incurred, has seen fit to lighten, the burden by planning the run-down over period of two years, thereby filtering men onto the labour market. Modification of the rules regarding gratuities should ulso prove of assistance to those who have only been in the yard's employment for a short period and it is hoped that this extra ald will tide them over during their search for other em-

It is gratifying to note that the authorities, both Naval Dockyard and Government, and local not hesitate to set up an Advisory Committee to findnew jobs. In fact, representatives met only a few hours after the Dockyard employees received their notices. Already preliminary investigations have started and and in business firms so that many of the workers should not have difficulty in finding employment provided is co-operation between the men and their leaders and the authorities. But the problem cannot be

The Assembly votes strengthened France's hand in the current United Nations debate on Algeria.

In the first of two confidence ballots, which were taken just after midnight, they voted 289 to 200 (official figures) in favour of Gaillard's framework law for limited home rule in Algeria.

In the second, they passed his Algerian electoral law 267 to 200 (official figures). The law was designed to grant full voting rights to Algeria's 9,000,-000 Mostems while giving Its million Europeans un effective voice through proportional representation.

TT is clear that the defence chiefs have decided that the progressive loss of British prestige and nower in the Middle East has robbed Malta of almost all strategic importance.

So the naval dockyard which omploys 18,000 men and is a vital factor in Malta's financial life has thrown on to the chopping block as an almost certain candidate for the newly sharpened economy hatchet.

This is a sad reward for Malta's 314,000 people who bombing blockade for six years.

It would be a sorry scuttle for Britain because Mr Mintoff has wurned the Government that if it gives up the dockyard it gives up Malta-for ever.

Communist members in romantic facade lurked the the international club may not always observe the rules, but surely non-membership would absolve them from the obligation to observe any rules at all.

Mr Minney, on the other hand, attempts to draw no political conclusions in his book. He puts forward no startling new thought. In fact he adds little that is new to our knowledge of China under the Communists.

His book is also the outcome of a visit .to China in 1956, when he was invited to deliver an address in Peking at the Mr Bertram's book repre- celubration of Bernard Shaw's While Mr Minney may be a also less competent, due to his lock of background knowledge of China. may be very well for the un-initiated, but it is not very rewarding -- reading for those seeking fresh information about Communist China.

How Little

Being a veteren film pro-ducer, Mr Minney is at his best when he is within his own frame of reference, when he is telling us what is going on in the film industry and in the theatres of China. His book also has the advantage of many black-and-white and coloured photographs as illustration.

Of the three books, Spring-time in Shanghal is the most disappointing. It is a rambling, disjointed narrative, outstanding it; shaky history and misinformation.

The book purports to be an account of life in China as lived by Mrs Smith. But it turned out to be a record of that artificial existence led by the foreign set in Shanghai, where Mrs Smith enjoyed "table rank" at formal dinners, played man jong (but not for money), at-tended race meetings, and commanded the services of a cook-boy, a wash amah, and "six as-sorted but well-trained underservants." That is, when she is not busy trying to be a pro-fessiontil Sinophile.

A passage on the dedication page of her book appears as page of her book appears as follows: "This book attempts no large round answers to political questions. But, whichever side you are on, China is bound to resume her place as a great world Power. May these my personal adventures while living there—give you the colourful idea, that rich experiences are in store when the oldest nation on earth, her house once again in order, opens a welcoming door to Westerners."

THIS AFTERNOON'S RUGBY

By "PAK LO"

The big attraction in the rugby matches scheduled for this afternoon will without doubt be the one between Club "A" and the Navy at Sookunpoo at 3.00 p.m., for this week-end the Navy are at full strength with their full complement of ships being in port, and the Club "A" have made a couple of changes which should make them stronger than they have been for some time.

Following this needle match at 4.15 p.m., on the same ground the Police face the mighty Garrison, while on the mainland at Kai Tak first RAF Mainland meet 48 Brigade at 3.00 p.m., and later RAF Island and Club "B" clash at 4.15 p.m.

Oddly enough over the last going pack should win easily, Brown, Steward, Elliot, King, weeks the pre-Christmas unless a miracle happens. Turner, Berger, Swindley, Miller, two weeks the pre-Christmas unless a miracle happens, Table has not seen any posi- | The second game is closer than

The major changes in Club "A" side are the new full back, Hearne, who has proved his ability with the "B" tenm and who now relieves O'Kolly, the latter going to the fly half position behind Tancock who after his good showing of late is preferred to Steward.

Valentine now goes to the cenre of the three line beside Cheong, and as a result the Club "A" has a very strong defensive side, and a good attacking three line, especially in its two fast, hard-going wingers. The pack also shows one change at wing forward where Stevens moves in in place of Elliott, The Club pack should hold its own with the Navy side which, though heavy and keen, lacks that little touch of cock, Williams, fluesse that can make a scrum Ross, half's job so much easier. The Navy threes are fast and strong in attack but iffeir passe ing is not always as good as it might be, and the Club, with the better back division, should take the honours in this game

Police v. Garrison

In the second game Garrison are weaker than usual, having had a couple of injuries. Gerrard is once again on the sick list, so Izod has moved back into the centre beside Busby while, rather surprisingly, Squires is at ful back instead of Linnell. Hay-ward is on the wing and a newcomer, Mawer by name, is given his chance on the other wing. The Police team remains unchange i, and though Garrison is weaker in the back division they should still win fairly easily. The Police backs are still fumbling too much to be any real danger to the Garrison, and the pack while they are likely to get a reasonable share of the ball do not quite come up to the Garrison standard. So a definite win for Garrison here, the only doubt being the size of Exctor

On the other side 48 Brigado, another top team, face RAF Plymouti Mainland who are still at the bottom of the table and look like remaining there. Brigade are unchanged and with their faster threes and heavier, harder

Comets And War Eagles Clash Should Be The Most Evenly Matched

Says "TIME OUT"

After ten busy and exciting weeks, local Softball slackens as only three games are down for decision this Sunday — two in the Junior League and one in the Ladies'. Of the three games the Junior tilt between the Comets and War Eagles should be the most evenly matched. In the other Junior games, the South China nine will cross bats with J. F. Yee's Wah Ying, whilst in the Ladies' Division the Champion South China entertain the Undergraduates from Pokfulam.

At long last the cellar-dwellers, the Wah Ying and South China, cross bats to decide which team will remain winless. The total eclipse of Kitchee by KMB last Sunday has stuck in my mind throughout the week. At first I thought mainly about the five goals and how easily it might have been double that number: then I thought about the utter inability of the more mature Kitchee players to match the virility and versatility of the younger opposition.

Soon, however, that strain of thought was replaced by others which dug a little deeper into the true significance of the game: dug into the hidden importance of the Busmen's victory and laid it on an assessment scale alongside the humiliation which Kitchee suffered.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 30

TORN today, you are full of charm and wit. You are one of the gay persons of the world and seem to carry fun and pleasure with you wherever you go. This is something of a paradox, for underneath your gay exterior there is a serious soul, always delving into the underlying motivations of mankind. But you are so able to clothe your serious intent in gay garments of humour that your "moral lessons" are highly palatable.

You have a quick imagination, a keen mind and a ready repartee. You probably will speak well in public and write as entertainingly as you speak. You enjoy activity and a continual change of pace. You love travel and will want to visit as many far places on the earth as you can within your lifetime. You are continually looking for a new adventure and you undoubtedly will be happiest in one of the professions where you can be your own boss. You hre a poor "follower" but rather are at your best when heading the procession.

Since you have a good supply of self-confidence and a strong will, you are not one to be crossed. You are quite willing to discuss both sides of any question, but you usually remain a man convinced against his will—if convinced at all! Once you have set your mind on a certain point of view, you are not likely to change it. You might find it more politic to change if in error. Remember that it is human to err.

You have a highly emotional nature and are romantic. You are the type to fall in love at first sight-and have it as the one and only love of your life, too. There should be great happiness in store for you.

Among those born on this date were: Jonathan Swift, satirist; Samuel Scabury, reformer; Cyrus W. Field, merchant; Jefferson de Angells, actor; Mark Twain, humorist, and Sir Winston Churchill, author, artist and statesman.

Doolittle And Top US Scientists To Advise Eisenhower

Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, Nov. 29. President Eisenhower today named retired Lt.-Gen. James M. Doolittle and four prominent scientists to a special committee to advise him on scientific matters.

He also transferred the entire 17-member scientific committee from the office of defence mobilisation to the White House to give it "a more direct relationship" with the President.
